Foreword

The 2010 Census of Population and Housing was conducted between 16th October and 15th November 2010. Complete enumeration in all parts of the country was achieved by 30th November 2010. The 2010 Census of Population and Housing marked the fifth national population census that Zambia has successfully conducted since independence in 1964. Previous censuses were conducted in 1969, 1980, 1990 and 2000.

Preliminary results were released in January 2011. These were based on population summary count information compiled by enumerators using summary count forms. These data were entered into computers at the district level and sent to Central Statistical Office (CSO) headquarters in Lusaka for compilation, verification, validation and analysis into a preliminary report.

A total of 3.2 million questionnaires were used to collect data from every individual and household covered during the census. In April 2011, the Central Statistical Office started the data capture and processing of the 2010 Census questionnaires. The data capture used Optical Mark Reading (OMR) and Intelligent Character Recognition (ICR) technology in order to speed up the processing time.

Unlike the Preliminary Report released early last year, this report contains final population figures as captured by the 2010 Census of Population and Housing. This report presents Age and Sex disaggregated data at selected levels of geography.

This report also presents information on the population that were registered as voters at the time of the Census, as well as those that were in possession of Green National Registration Cards (NRCs). This information could not be presented in the Preliminary Report because census questionnaires had not yet been captured into computers at the time hence what was presented was number of eligible voters as compiled from population summary counts.

Following the 20th September 2011 tripartite elections and the ushering in of the Patriotic Front Government, Muchinga Province was created by His Excellency The President of the Republic of Zambia, Mr. Micheal Chilufya Sata, in October 2011.

This report includes information for the newly created Muchinga Province. Muchinga Province was created from whole districts that were part of Northern Province (Chinsali, Isoka, Mpika and Nakonde) and Eastern Province (Chama). The new district of Mafinga which forms the sixth district of the new Province of Muchinga was created by taking the whole of Isoka East Constituency. Since the new province has been created by taking whole districts, without altering existing district boundaries, population totals for the new province have been easily extracted from the original areas that were part of Northern and Eastern provinces, respectively. This therefore means that the new totals for Northern and Eastern provinces are lower due to the loss of four (4) and one (1) districts respectively to the new province of Muchinga.

Zambia's final Population count as captured by the 2010 Census stood at 13,092,666. This was an increase from the population of 9,885,591 captured during the 2000 Census. This represents a 2.8 percent annual rate of population growth during the inter-censal period, 2000-2010. Of the total population enumerated in the 2010 Census, 7,919,216 representing 60.5 percent were in rural areas, while 5,173,450 representing 39.5 percent of the population were in urban areas. The population was broken down into 49.3 percent (6,454,647) males and 50.7 percent (6,638,019) females.

As a result of the rapid population growth, Zambia has continued to have a very young population with 45.4 percent of the total population being below the age of 15 years. This poses a great challenge to the country in terms of provision of health services, education opportunities and employment for now and into the future. Concerted effort is required from all stakeholders in meeting the challenges of this young and growing population. Zambia must aim at stabilizing the rate of population growth to a sustainable rate in line with the country's economic and social development agenda. A sustainable population growth rate is an asset that can and must be harnessed. However, unsustainable rate of population growth may hinder the much desired economic and social transformation that the country wants to achieve.

Zambia's vision as espoused in the National Population Policy is to improve the quality of life of the people through the achievement of population trends commensurate with socio-economic development. I therefore urge all stakeholders to take the implementation of the National Population Policy seriously in order to achieve sustainable development.

At this stage, I would like to thank all our cooperating partners that supported the 2010 Census of Population and Housing. Special gratitude goes to the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), the United Kingdom AID (UKAID-formerly DFID), the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) and the African Development Bank (AfDB) for their material, financial and technical support to the Government of the Republic of Zambia (GRZ) and the Central Statistical Office (CSO) during this mammoth national exercise.

I also extend my sincere gratitude to the Zambian people and all the residents of Zambia during the census for the support and cooperation. I hope the information contained in this report and in the reports to follow will be effectively used by all to plan and deliver development to the Zambian people.

Alexander B. Chikwanda, MP
Minister of Finance and National Planning

The 2010 Census of Population and Housing was successfully conducted between 16th October and 15th November 2010. However, field enumeration was only concluded in all parts of the country on 30th November 2010. Scanning of the 2010 Census questionnaires started in April 2011 and was successfully concluded in August 2011. Data verification and development of edit and imputation specifications and programmes started in May and was completed in November 2011.

Stakeholder consultations on the Tabulation Plan and Analysis roadmap were held at the end of October 2011, and there after a tabulation workshop was held to run the first set of final tabulations, upon which this report is based.

At this point, I would like to commend and thank the Government of the Republic of Zambia (GRZ) for its commitment to take stock of its population by conducting the 2010 Census of Population and Housing. I would like to pay gratitude to the Treasury headed by the then Secretary to the Treasury Mr. Likolo Ndalamei and the current Secretary to the Treasury Mr. Fredson K. Yamba for their personal commitment to the 2010 Census. The continued support from the Government is a great indicator of the importance attached to information for planning and monitoring the development agenda set forth.

I would also like to pay sincere gratitude to UNFPA, UKAID, USAID and AfDB for the financial, material and technical support so far rendered to the 2010 Census.

I take special mention of the National Census Committee chaired by the then Secretary to the Cabinet, Dr. Joshua L. Kanganja, assisted by Mr. C. Evans Chibiliti, the current Secretary to the Cabinet. I also acknowledge the immense contribution of the National Census Steering Committee, the Provincial Census Committees and the District Census Committees in supporting the day-to-day monitoring and supervision of the entire census operation at the national, provincial and districts levels, respectively.

I extend sincere appreciation and gratitude to the various administrative and technical committees that spearheaded the preparation and execution of the 2010 Census of Population and Housing at different levels. These include the Cartographic Technical Committee chaired by the Surveyor General Mr Danny Mubanga, Planning and Methodology Committee Chaired by Dr. Namuunda Mutombo (UNZA), Census Publicity Committee chaired by Mr. Gilbert Maimbo (former Director – ZANIS), the Logistics and Security Committee chaired by Mr. Daniel Bowasi (former Director Human Resource and Administration, Ministry of Finance and National Planning) and the Data Processing Committee chaired by Dr. Jacob Mulenga from Centralized Computer Services Department (CCSD) of Ministry of Finance and National Planning.

I would further like to thank the 2010 Census Secretariat, in particular the Deputy Director in charge of Social Statistics Mr. William C. Mayaka, the Census Manager, Mr. Richard Banda and the Deputy Census Manager, Ms. Nchimunya Nkombo, Mr.

Modesto Banda (Deputy Director - Agriculture and Environment Statistics), Mr. Peter Mukuka (Deputy Director - Information, Research and Dissemination), Mr. Goodson Sinyenga (Deputy Director - Economic Statistics), Mr. Iven Sikanyiti (Geographical Information Officer), Mr Charles Mugala (Field Co-ordinator), Ms Linda Chonya (Senior Research Officer), Ms. Etambuyu Lukonga (Documentalist) and Mr Steven Kacha (Departmental Security Officer) for their dedication and hard work during the most challenging and difficult stages of the Census.

I would like to extend and recognize the contribution of the data processing staff for the hard work and commitment during the data capture and processing of the 3.2 million census questionnaires. Special mention should be made of the IT Manager, Mr Frank Kakungu and his Assistant Ms. Catherine Mwape, Mr Chanda Lubemba, Senior Systems Analyst (Examinations Council of Zambia), Ms Barbra Muyabi, Mr. Michelo Munzele and Mr. Siphon Inambao for effectively and efficiently coordinating the entire data processing exercise.

I also thank the mapping and cartographic teams for their work during the preparatory phase. I extend gratitude to the Regional Statisticians for effectively supporting the 2010 Census exercise from preparation, enumeration and post enumeration phases. I also make mention of the Provincial Census Officers, all the Master Trainers and Assistant Master Trainers for effectively coordinating the census in the various provinces and districts of assignment. I thank all the Supervisors and Enumerators for the job well done and for enduring the challenges of census data collection. Special gratitude go to staff of the Central Statistical Office and other institutions who all in one way or the other contributed to the successful conduct of the 2010 Census.

Finally but not at all the least, I would like to extend my sincere gratitude to the technical staff from the US Bureau of the Census, Mr Thomas Ondra, Mr Mark Muenchrath and Ms Lisa Lollock for their dedication and commitment during the development of edit and imputation specifications and programmes, data verification and editing, and tabulation of the 2010 Census data. The skills transfer and capacity building that was done during this process will continue to serve CSO for many years to come.

I also thank the two census advisors Dr. Jeremiah Banda from AfDB and Dr. Griffith Feeny from DFID for their technical support to the census.

I hope all stakeholders and data users will make effective use of these final population results. Detailed Analytical, Thematic and Descriptive Tabulation Reports will be released later in 2012.

Introduction

The 2010 Census marks the fifth National Census of Population and Housing conducted in Zambia since independence in 1964. The country has so far conducted censuses in 1969, 1980, 1990 and 2000.

The 2010 Census of Population and Housing was carried out from 16th October to 15th November, 2010. The 2010 Census was conducted by a team of about 25,000 school leavers who worked as Census Enumerators, about 8,400 teachers and other civil servants who worked as Census Supervisors. Four hundred Civil Servants from various Government Departments and Ministries worked as Master Trainers, Assistant Master Trainers and Provincial Census Officers.

The main objectives of the 2010 Census of Population and Housing included:

- To provide accurate and reliable information on the size, composition and distribution of the population of Zambia at the time of the census;
- To provide information on the demographic and socio-economic characteristics of the population of Zambia at the lowest administrative level – the ward;
- To provide indicators for measuring progress towards national and international development goals in a timely and user friendly manner;
- To provide information on the number and characteristics of households engaged in agriculture and other economic activities;
- To provide an accurate sampling frame and sample weights for future inter-censal household and population based surveys;
- To provide information identifying the number of eligible voters for the 2011 General Elections;
- To provide a census that meets national and international standards and allows for comparability with other censuses;
- To provide information on the housing characteristics of the population, etc.

Defacto and De Jure Population

Census Enumerators went out visiting all buildings in Zambia whether completed, incomplete, abandoned, habitable and inhabitable for the purpose of identifying characteristics of all buildings, households and other human aspects. All persons who lived in the buildings were counted and detailed information pertaining to their characteristics obtained.

Persons who were present at the time of the enumerator's visit were counted directly as Usual Household Members present at the Housing Unit/Dwelling or as Visitors of the Household. This is what is called De Facto Population. While those who were absent were enumerated by proxy, that is, as Usual Household Members Absent from the Housing Unit/Dwelling at the time of the enumerator's visit. The Usual Household Members present at the Housing Unit/Dwelling at the time of the enumerator's visit together with the Usual Household Members Absent from the Housing Unit/Dwelling is what is called the De Jure Population or True Population.

Detailed personal information was only collected for Usual Household Members present and Visitors found at the Housing Unit/Dwelling at the time of the enumerator's visit, while for Usual Household Members Absent, only Age, Sex, Relationship to Household Head and Residence Status were collected by proxy from the main respondent for the Household. Therefore, while the True Population is obtained from the De Jure Count, detailed analysis of the population by background characteristics is based on the De Facto count, because it is the De Facto Population from whom all details in the questionnaire were collected during enumeration.

Differences between the 2010 and 2000 Census

The Census mapping methodology in 2010 was Geographic Information System (GIS) driven with the use of Satellite Imagery in urban areas and Global Positioning System (GPS) in rural areas. In contrast, the 2000 Census mapping methodology only involved use of GPS and manual plotting of locations on topographic maps.

The 2010 Census used a single questionnaire to capture individual, household and housing characteristics from the population, whereas the 2000 Census used two different questionnaires, Form A (Household and Housing Characteristics) and Form B (Individual Characteristics) to collect information from the population.

During data capturing, the 2010 Census used Optical Mark Reading (OMR) and Intelligent Character Recognition (ICR) technology, whereas the 2000 Census were based on OMR technology only.

The 2010 Census differs from the 2000 Census by including questions on deaths of Household Members during the 12 months period prior to the census enumeration, as well as cause of death for all reported deaths.

Included for the first time were questions on maternal deaths to women aged 12-49 years during the reference period (12 months prior to the Census). Questions were asked of female household members aged 12-49 years that were reported to have died during the reference period (12 months prior to the census), whether the death had occurred while the woman was pregnant, during childbirth or six weeks after the end of a pregnancy, regardless of the outcome of the pregnancy.

Another new addition was the question on whether one was an Albino or not.

Based on the African Union and SADC recommendations to the 2010 round of population censuses, and also national needs for up to date information on the number of orphans at different geographic levels of programming, two questions, one on Orphanhood status and another on Foster-hood status were included for the first time.

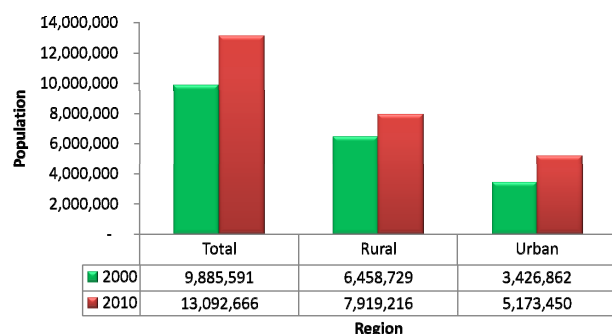

The 2010 Census used school leavers that had completed their Secondary School Education within 2-5 years prior to the Census as Enumerators while the 2000 Census used Grade Eleven School Pupils.

Zambia: Population Size, Composition, Distribution and Electoral Information

Population Size

Figure 1.1 shows the trends in population from 2000 to 2010. The population of Zambia as captured during the 2010 Census of Population and Housing was 13,092,666. This represents an increase of 32.4 percent from the population of 9,885,591 captured during the 2000 Census. The population in rural areas increased from 6,458,729 in 2000 to 7,919,216 in 2010, representing an increase of 22.6 percent between the two censuses. The population in urban areas grew by 51.0 percent from a population of 3,426,862 in 2000 to 5,173,450 in 2010.

Zambia has one of the fastest growing populations in Sub Saharan Africa. The Zambian population grew at a rate of 2.8 percent per annum during the intercensal period 2000-2010. This is an increase over the annual rate of population growth of 2.4 percent per annum recorded during the period 1990-2000.

Figure 1.2 shows the average annual rate of population growth for Zambia during the 1990-2000 and 2000-2010 inter-censal periods. The urban population grew at a rate of 4.2 percent per annum in the period 2000 – 2010, compared to 1.5 percent per annum during the period 1990 – 2000. The rural population grew at a rate of 2.1 percent per annum during the same period 2000 –2010, a drop from the annual rate of 3.0 percent during the period 1990-2000.

Table 1.1 shows the average annual rate of population growth for Zambia by province during the inter-censal period 2000-2010. Lusaka Province was the fastest growing province with an annual rate of population growth of 4.6 percent, followed by Northern Province at 3.2 percent per annum and the newly created Muchinga Province at 3.1 percent per annum. Muchinga Province was created in 2011, but the growth rate was calculated based on the population of the districts that make up the province by adding the population of the districts as at 2000. Similarly, the 2000 population figures for Eastern and Northern provinces have been affected by this adjustment. Western Province had the least annual rate of population growth during the intercensal period 2000-2010, growing at 1.7 percent per annum.

Population Composition

Table 1.2 shows the population composition by province, region and sex. Of the total population, 49.3 percent (6,454,647) were males and 50.7 percent (6,638,019) were females. The percentage sex composition of the population in rural and urban areas was similar to that at the national level. There were more females, 50.7

percent (4,012,580) than males, 49.3 percent (3,906,636) in rural areas, and 50.7 percent (2,625,439) females compared to 49.3 percent (2,548,011) males in urban areas. The age and sex structure is depicted by the population pyramids in Figures 1.3, 1.4 and 1.5.

Table 1.3 shows the population age structure of Zambia within broad age groups. The population age structure shows that 45.4 percent of the population was below the age of 15 years. This age group constituted 48.6 percent of the total population in rural areas and 40.5 percent of the total population in urban areas. This means Zambia has a very young population, with potential for continued growth. These results are mirrored in Figures 1.3, 1.4 and 1.5.

The youth population, age group 15-24 years, made up 20.8 percent of the total population. This age group constituted 19.3 percent of the rural population and 23.2 percent of the urban population.

The population aged 15-64 years constituted 52.0 percent of the total population. This age group constituted 48.2 percent of the rural population and 57.8 percent of the urban population.

The elderly population, (those aged 65 years and older) made up 2.6 percent of the population. This age group constituted 3.2 percent of the rural population and 1.8 percent of the urban population.

Population Distribution

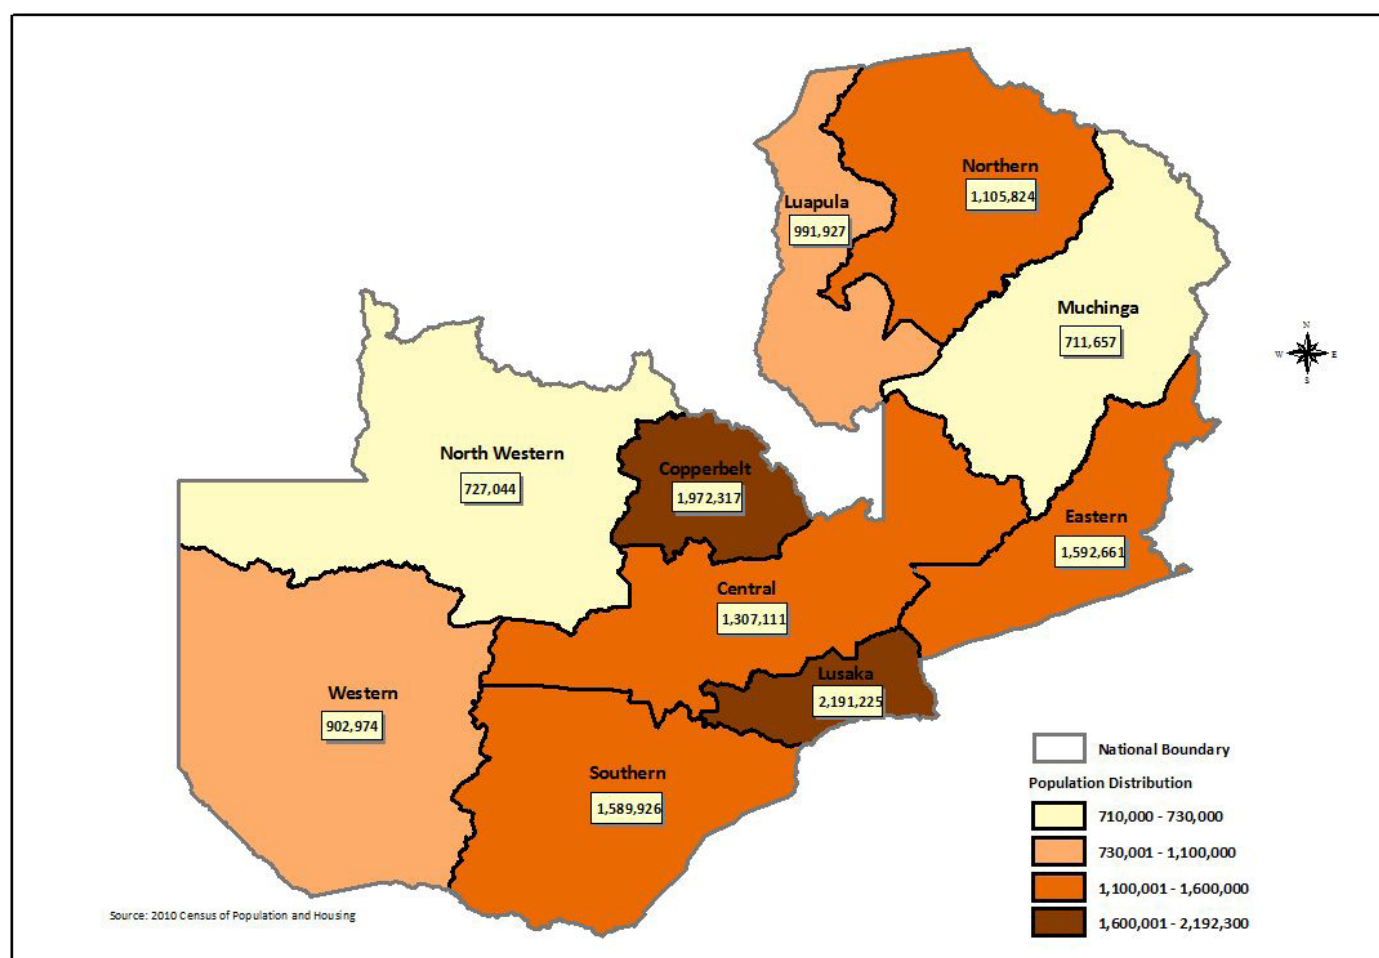

Table 1.4 shows the total population of Zambia by region for the years 2000 and 2010. Of the 13,092,666 total population, 60.5 per cent (7,919,216) were in rural areas and 39.5 percent (5,173,450) were in urban areas. The percentage of the urban population increased from 34.7 percent in 2000 to 39.5 percent in 2010, consolidating Zambia's position as one of the highly urbanized countries in Sub Saharan Africa.

Map 1: Total Population by Province, Zambia 2010

Map 1 shows population distribution by province.

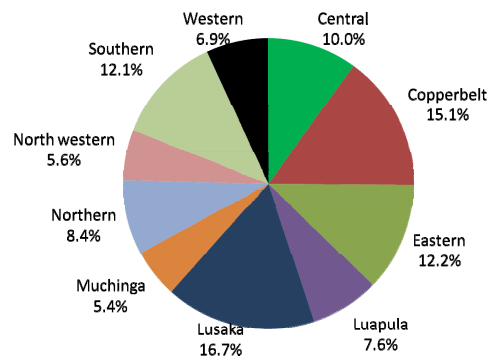

Figure 1.6 shows the percentage share of population by province. At provincial level, Lusaka Province had the largest percent share of the population at 16.7 percent (2,191,225) of the total population. Copperbelt Province was second with 15.1 percent (1,972,317), while Eastern Province was third with 12.2 percent (1,592,661) of the total population. Muchinga Province had the least percent share of the total population at 5.4 percent (711,657).

Population Density

Map 2 and Table 1.5 show the population density of Zambia. Population density is defined as the total number of persons per square kilometer. Zambia has a land area of 752,612 square kilometers. The country is still sparsely populated with a population density of 17.4 persons per square kilometer in 2010. The population density increased from 13.1 persons per square kilometer in 2000 to 17.4 persons per square kilometer in 2010, representing an increase of 4.3 persons per square kilometer.

The most densely populated province in Zambia was Lusaka Province with a population density of 100.1 persons per square kilometer. Copperbelt Province was second with a population density of 63.0 persons per square kilometer. North Western Province was the least densely populated province with a population density of 5.8 persons per square kilometer.

Household Size and Composition

Figures 1.7, 1.8 and Table 1.6 show the number of households and the sex of the household head in the country. Zambia had a total of 2,513,768 households as captured during the 2010 Census of Population and Housing. This increased from 1,884,741 in 2000 representing a 33.4 percent increase during the intercensal period 2000–2010. Male headed households made up 77.5 percent (1,947,501) of all households, while 22.5 percent (566,267) were female headed households. The total number of households in rural areas was 1,495,861 (59.5 percent) compared with 1,017,907 (40.5 percent) in urban areas.

The average household size was 5.2 persons. The average household size in rural areas was 5.3 persons compared with 5.1 persons in urban areas. Male headed households have a larger average household size of 5.4 persons compared to 4.4 persons for female headed households.

Population with Green National Registration Cards (NRCs) by District

Figure 1.9 shows the proportion of the population 16 years or older with a green National Registration Card (NRC) by province at the time of the census. Copperbelt Province had the highest proportion of NRC holders with 87.7 percent followed by Luapula Province with 86.5 percent. Central Province had the least proportion of NRC holders with 80.6 percent.

Table 1.7 and Map 3 show the population aged 16 years and older with green NRCs in the country. All Zambian citizens qualify to obtain a Green National Registration Card upon attaining the age of 16 years. At the time of the 2010 Census, 6,412,290 Zambian citizens were aged 16 years or older, making them eligible to have green NRCs. Of these, 5,358,605 Zambian citizens had NRCs.

Electoral Information

Population of Registered Voters

The 2010 Census of Population and Housing collected information on the number of registered voters at the time of the census. Household members interviewed during the census were asked whether they were registered voters or not.

Table 1.8 shows the number of eligible voters and those who were registered voters. At the time of the 2010 Census, 5,857,806 Zambian citizens were aged 18 years or older, making them eligible to vote. Of these, 3,677,092 were registered voters. This represented voter registration coverage of 62.8 percent as at the time of the census in October 2010. Of the total number of registered voters, 1,818,517 (49.5 percent) were males and 1,858,575 (50.5 percent) were females.

Table 1.8 also shows that 2,109,518 (57.4 percent) of all registered voters were in rural areas while 1,567,574 (42.6 percent) were in urban areas. The number of registered voters by province is also indicated in Map 4.

Figure 1.10 shows percent share of registered voters by province. Copperbelt Province had the highest percentage of registered voters with 17.5 percent (642,210) followed by Lusaka Province with 17.2 percent (631,816) of all registered voters. Muchinga Province had the least percentage of registered voters at 5.1 percent (189,189) .
